Fecal matter in Perrier, Vittel, Hépar and Nestlé Waters - despite illegal disinfection measures. French authorities allegedly tolerated illegal cleaning and violated consumer notification obligations and those of EU member states.

Peter Brabeck-Letmathe, the man who made Nestlé the world's largest scandal bottler, has indeed left the company and is now the second-in-command at the World Economic Forum (WEF), yet the company's business dealings and criminal machinations continue without him.

The European Commission is now investigating "the green bottles" and much more besides.
