Continuation: "Water doesn't give a damn about science's 'reason'..."

With billions of euros in advertising, the industry has successfully filled its customers' pockets for generations. Mineral water became the most popular beverage among Germans. Constant drops don't just wear away stone; they eat their way...

With billions of euros in advertising, the industry has successfully filled its customers' pockets for generations. Mineral water became the most popular beverage among Germans. Constant drops wear away not just stone; they also eat their way into consciousness. But does that make mineral water the best and healthiest for the body?

In the channel truuinfochannel nutritionists, toxicologists, book authors and doctors from all over the world come to very different conclusions. For example here , here , here or here etc.. Not only do civilization diseases have their causes, but so does health. And health is better transmitted through reason than through advertising millions.

In beverage advertising, it often applies: "Speech is silver, exaggeration is gold". We forego promises and instead let every interested person experience our water personally free of charge for one week. After well over 30 thousand users of our water, we are firmly convinced that with our water, consumers pass away at the end of their days in the healthiest way :-)

Our hand-produced high-performance filters are only delivered to customers after they have subjected the water to a week-long test on their own body and in their own household. Nothing gives more certainty than personal experience. It is the most reliable form of guarantee, especially when it comes to your body - because no body is like any other!

Health begins in thinking. Listen to no one but listen to yourself. Personal experience is what matters, not promises or even lies that are repeated over and over again with the help of advertising millions until people finally believe them. You can try the benefits of the purest, cleanest water and test them on yourself, your family, your animals and plants - bypassing any promises, dogmas, advertising claims and beliefs. Springs in Germany and Switzerland offer this possibility. Under this link you will find out how you can do it.

It's good.
to be truu.