Millions of people are currently wearing face masks with varying degrees of hope to protect their own health or that of others. For some, it is their right; for others, merely a legal obligation. In 2020, according to the German Federal Statistical Office, there were 985,620 deaths in Germany. Approximately 33% of people died from heart/circulatory problems, about 23% died from cancer, and 3% died from Covid19, at an average age of over 81 years. (Source below)

Most German citizens currently "perceive" the greatest threat to life in a different area. Bare numbers, statistics, and above all trust in one's own reason are a protection against the clouding of such "perceptions."

Given the omnipresent health measures that essentially bypass the statistically proven greatest threat to life through heart/circulatory diseases, it should be noted that numerous scientists and health advisors have identified mineral-containing water as an important cause of heart/circulatory problems.

On the messenger: "Telegram," the channel: https://t.me/truuinfochannel was created to draw attention to many important pieces of information on the topic of drinking water. Water should be as free as possible from minerals, pure and clean so that it can fulfill its function as a solvent and transport medium in the body. Minerals in drinking water harden and petrify the arteries and blood vessels, make them brittle and thus shorten life!

In 2018 alone, the Association of the Mineral Water Industry generated 3.56 billion euros in revenue from the sale of mineral-containing water. For generations, the "perception" of us consumers has been intensively influenced by the advertising millions of a mineral water industry that advertises minerals in its water.

We summarize: Mineral water is the most popular beverage of Germans. Death from heart/circulatory diseases is by far the number one cause of death among Germans. If one already puts a mask over one's nose before leaving the house - would it not be worth trying to subject the matter of clean, pure water without minerals to one's own examination?

It's good.
